Name and Surname: Ram Reifen

Home Institution: Hebrew University of Jerusalem

Host Institution: University of Camerino

Type of mobility: Staff mobility of training

Duration: one week

Description of the activities:

I came with two colleagues from the Hebrew University and handled discussions with graduate students as well as researchers on topics associated with food and nutrition. The PhD students as well as the researchers in the nutrigenomics pharmacology nutrition and food sciences presented their work and we discussed possible ways to proceed and even to join forces on some issues where we can contribute to the success of the research. We had a tour at the facility service and learned how they implement it in Camerino. The last day was all about future collaborations. Application to the EU grants and more. Overall an outstanding visit and talks with researchers and students on science and collaboration between the two institutions. I gave a seminar to the staff and to the PhD students on our work on plant/alternative proteins which evoked further discussions along the week. We did have one session where the students had a chance to ask general questions on our career and how to plan their career.

Pictures will be sent by my colleagues which will include me in them
